Allison is a girl who enjoys being active with things like swimming and riding bikes. She has a good imagination and especially loves to play with her baby dolls. She is a fan of Hannah Montana and other Disney characters. Allison enjoys school although she is behind her peers academically. She has an Individualized Education Plan to address her delays in reading, writing, language, math and speech. She is currently on medication for symptoms of ADHD to help her with her overall school performance. Allison sometimes has trouble keeping appropriate boundaries and needs reminders. Allison can be cautious and shy especially around new people but at other times, can be very talkative.

Ashley is a talkative and busy girl. She too likes to swim and with some encouragement to play outside. Ashley loves toy ponies and the color pink! She especially likes to draw with pencil and paper. She really enjoys having the attention of her care givers. Ashley has speech and social delays that are being addressed at school through an Individualized Education Plan (IEP). She is not performing on level with her classmates at this time and is being assessed further. Ashley is currently taking medication for symptoms of ADHD to assist her ability to focus while in school and at home.

Both Allison and Ashley will need a family with lots of energy and patience who can advocate for them, provide strong structure with clear limits and set appropriate boundaries. If there are other children in the home, they should be older than Allison and Ashley. Their adoptive family will need to give the girls a great deal of nurturing and look forward to challenging the girls to reach their potential in all areas of their lives. They will need to be willing to follow through with and be supportive of the therapeutic interventions currently in place as well as those needed in the future.
