

Javon
Birthdate:
January, 1996

Javon, a young teenager, loves to be on the go. He has quite a knowledge base about sports and enjoys playing them, especially basketball, football, and going fishing. Javon loves one-on-one attention and he thrives on verbal praise from adults. He can be helpful with yard work and other household chores. Javon also enjoys attending church and being involved with youth related activities. Javon wants a family that will support his continued involvement in a variety of activities, as he does well when he is kept busy.

Javon attends school in a structured alternative school setting to meet his special educational needs. Although diagnosed with both mental health and behavioral challenges, Javon is working to address these issues through services in a residential treatment center. Javon will need your help developing healthy personal boundaries and a sense of belonging, as well as learning how to take responsibility for the choices he makes.

Javon needs a family that has time to devote to him and advocate for him in all areas. Due to Javon's need for attention and feelings of insecurity, we are looking for a family with a strong support system. Javon would do best in a family as an only child or with siblings who are not close in age. Javon's new family must be willing to work with service providers in order to learn more about him and how to care for his specific needs.

Professionals working with Javon recommend that he not have contact with his birth parents. At this time sibling contact is not being recommended so that Javon can transition and adjust in his permanent family setting. However, a family being open to future sibling contact would be important to Javon provided that contact has a positive impact for him.

If you are the family that can love and support Javon as he transitions into young adulthood, then I look forward to hearing from you.

Because no one should grow up alone. For more information, contact:
