Birthdate:

Anthony, who likes to be called Tony, is a fun-loving, creative, active teenage boy. Tony can come off as shy when you first meet him until he feels comfortable and opens up. Once he is comfortable he is more talkative and loves to play. Tony loves climbing trees and playing outside. He enjoys riding his bike, playing sports, playing with cars and wrestler action figures. Tony has an artistic side and enjoys learning new crafts such as origami. He also enjoys drawing and coloring and has a great imagination. He has recently shown an interest in playing chess.

Tony has a history of significant loss and can struggle with expressing his feelings. He will need time in order to establish a level of trust with a new adult in his life. He also needs help in navigating peer relationships, but has shown improvement recently. Tony is in the eighth grade and struggles some in school and has an Individualized Education Plan to address his specific needs. He has shown great improvement this past year and has made gains both academically and behaviorally. His favorite subject is math.

Anthony is in need of a two-parent family with no younger children in order to be able to give him the care and supervision he needs. He will have an ongoing need for therapeutic services and a family willing to engage along with him. Tony has a desire to live with a family, but will need time and energy to establish a bond.

If you think you might be the family for Anthony I would love to hear from you!
